Profile

I am seeking a position as a UI Designer which will allow me to utilise and continually develop my creative design skills ranging from digital graphical design, to art direction and branding. I recently graduated from university after studying architecture and wish to successfully apply both the hard techniques and core design principles I learnt along with the mental design skills and habits I developed to a UI Designer role.

Experience

Architecture

Studying architecture taught me my basic core design principles whilst also integrating a driven, hard-working ethic which was required throughout my degree and which I have successfully applied to all my endeavors since graduating.

Freelance

To continue my development as a designer and to broaden my design scope I have accepted some freelance opportunities ranging from poster design to logos.

Courses

I have enrolled onto the careerfoundry's User Interface Design Course and I am currently about halfway through the course with aims to finish in January. To continue my progression as a designer since leaving university and during the pandemic I have also taken the initiative to learn new programmes such as After Effects, Premiere Pro and Blender and further developed my photoshop skills.

Design Brand

Perhaps the most important experience I have garnered since leaving university is launching my own art brand, 'Deusolus'. This experience has taught me a lot regarding marketing, streamlining my design process and pushed my design abilities significantly.
